pdf) Social Security In the Social Security Amendments of 1950, congress established that the names and social security numbers of most workers and their families are confidential, and that individuals shall not be compelled to disclose their SSN. In some cases, the name of the worker or his/her spouse may be required, under narrow circumstances, to be disclosed by the SSN. In the Unauthorized Practice of Medicine (UPM) section of the Immigration and Nationality Act of 1990, the section on physician examiners, 8 USC §1324c, is specific in that it states: "No alien shall be eligible to be a physician examiner. For purposes of this section, the term "alien" shall not include an alien who is an officer, director, or employee of a physician examiner recruiting company or of a physician examiner recruitment program who is not otherwise employed by such a company or such a program." This makes the director of a physician recruitment company liable for violations of this section.

The section limits liability to the amount of financial gain the recruiter received. However, since this was a section of the Unauthorized Practice of Medicine Act, it only applies to physicians who work outside of the United States.
